

ABSTRACT

The invention is directed to a device for calibrating signals, whereby at least two signal circuits are provided for generating signals. In order to calibrate the signals, elements are provided that evaluate the signals generated by the signal circuits and, dependent thereon, drive at least one of the at least two signal circuits such that the time reference of the signals generated by the signal circuits relative to one another is set corresponding to at least one prescribed value.